<h1>GOAL #</h1>	<h1>16</h1> PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS
-----------------	---

What's the goal?

Promote just, peaceful and inclusive societies

Peaceful, just and inclusive societies are necessary to achieve all the Sustainable Development Goals.

We cannot hope for sustainable development without peace, stability, human rights and effective governance, based on the rule of law. Yet our world is increasingly divided. Some regions enjoy peace, security and prosperity, while others fall into seemingly endless cycles of conflict and violence. This is not inevitable and must be addressed.

How can a country develop - how can people eat and teach and learn and work and raise families - without peace? And how can a country have peace without justice, without human rights, without government based on the rule of law?

The Sustainable Development Goals aim to reduce all forms of violence and propose that governments and communities find lasting solutions to conflict and insecurity. That means strengthening the rule of law, reducing the flow of illicit arms, and bringing developing countries more into the centre of institutions of global governance.

Facts and figures

68.5 million By the end of 2017, 68.5 million people had been forcibly displaced as a result of persecution, conflict, violence or human rights violations.	1 billion 1 billion people are legally 'invisible' because they cannot prove who they are. This includes an estimated 625 million children under 14 whose births were never registered.
10 million There are at least 10 million stateless people who have been denied nationality and its related rights.	49 49 countries lack laws protecting women from domestic violence.
US$1.26 trillion Corruption, bribery, theft and tax evasion cost developing countries US$1.26 trillion per year.	46 In 46 countries, women now hold more than 30 percent of seats in at least one chamber of national parliament.

People everywhere need to be free of fear from all forms of violence and feel safe as they go about their lives whatever their ethnicity, faith or sexual orientation.

What needs to be done to address this?

To achieve peace, justice and inclusion, it is important that governments, civil society and communities work together to implement lasting solutions to reduce violence, deliver justice, combat corruption and ensure inclusive participation at all times.

Freedom to express views, in private and in public, must be guaranteed.

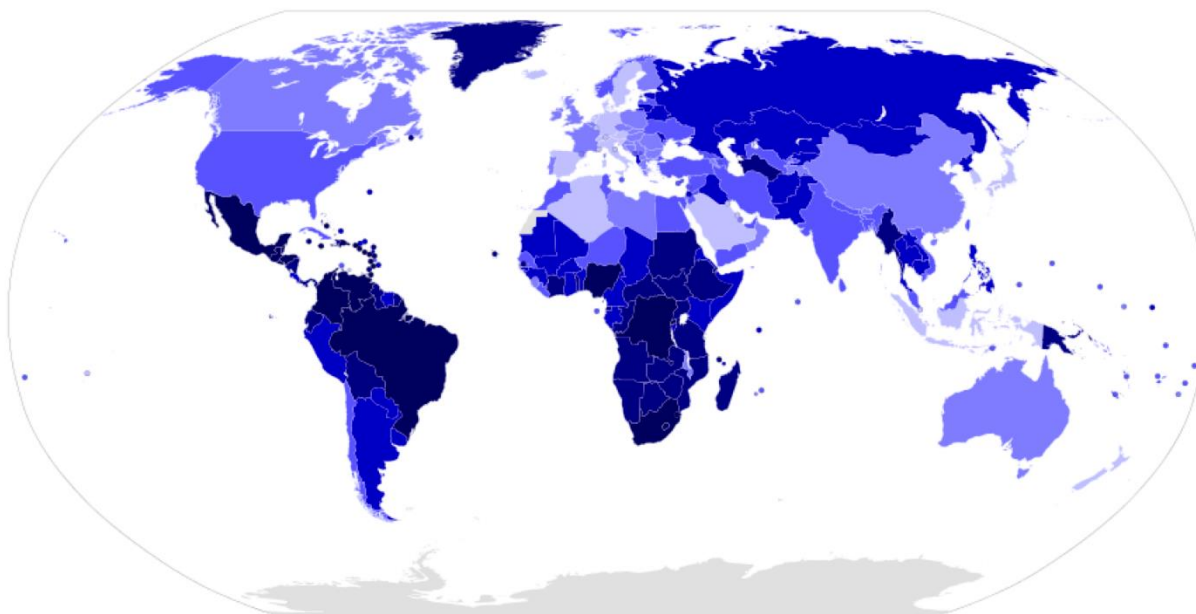

People must be able to contribute to decisions that affect their lives.

Laws and policies must be applied without any form of discrimination. Disputes need to be resolved through functioning political and justice systems.

In order to advance the SDGs we need effective and inclusive public institutions that can deliver quality education, healthcare, fair economic policies, and inclusive environmental protection.

How does this goal apply to me, wherever I live?

Crimes that threaten the foundation of peaceful societies, including homicides, trafficking and other organized crimes, as well as discriminatory laws or practices, affect all countries. Even the world's greatest democracies face major challenges in addressing corruption, crime and human rights violations for everyone at home.

What would be the cost of not taking action now?

Armed violence and insecurity have a destructive impact on a country's development, affecting economic growth and often resulting in long-standing grievances among communities.

Violence, in all its forms, has a pervasive impact on societies. Violence affects children's health, development and well-being, and their ability to thrive. It causes trauma and weakens social inclusion.

Institutions that do not function according to legitimate laws are prone to arbitrariness and abuse of power, and less capable of delivering public services to everyone.

To exclude and to discriminate not only violates human rights, but also causes resentment and animosity, and could give rise to violence.

What can we do?

Take a genuine interest in what your government is doing. Raise awareness in your community about the realities of violence and the importance of peaceful and just societies, and identify how you can pursue the SDGs in your daily life.

Exercise your right to hold your elected officials to account. Exercise your right to freedom of information and share your opinion with your elected representatives.

Be the change – promote inclusion and respect towards people of different backgrounds, ethnic origins, religions, gender, sexual orientations or different opinions. Together, we can help to improve conditions for a life of dignity for all.

Now I Know...

- 😊 That the cycle of conflict and violence is not inevitable.
- 😊 The importance of finding lasting solutions to conflict and insecurity.
- 😊 The number of people forcibly displaced because of violations of human rights.
- 😊 What governments, civil society and communities should do.
- 😊 How insecurity affects everyone.
- 😊 The cost of not acting now.
